Michael Fitzalan : 66 Switch before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 66 Switch:

Franz Kafka meets Raymond Chandler. This is a terrifying psychological novel that charges to a chilling finale. Sassy Joe Ederer thinks he knows it all. So, why is he in the wrong part of town with the wrong set of friends for company? Haunted by sinister nightmares, Joe Ederer, an American in London, recalls his voracious past. Reality starts to mirror his dreams and Joe is thrust into a twilight existence where only the fit and quick-witted will survive. This is a graphic and tasteful thriller, which follows Joe's thoughts and deeds in excruciating detail. An enjoyable bagatelle that twists and turns as 'Jive-talking Joersquo; fights for his survival and a chance to reinvent himself. He drives a 'limo' with a gun under the seat, he has people he wants to get out of his life and he has a new love interest. Everything will be all right, then, maybe, perhaps, for sure.
