A superlative overviewBy David ArbogastThis is a superlative overview of architectural conservation on the European continent and in both North and South America. It is crisply organized by continent beginning with Europe. Each continent is broken into its constituent countries and both the history and the present state of the art as conducted within each country is discussed in sufficient detail, accompanied by excellent black-and-white illustrations. There is, as well, both excellent introductory discussions as well as summaries.

From such well-known and long-vexed sites as the Athenian Acropolis to more contemporary locales like the Space Age Modernist capital city of Brasília, the conflicting and not always neatly resolvable forces that bear upon preservation are addressed as clearly and thoughtfully as the general reader could hope for. New York Review of Books — an astonishing feat of research, compilation and synthesis. — Context The book delivers the first major survey concerning the conservation of cultural heritage in both Europe and the Americas. Architectural Conservation in Europe and the Americas serves as a convenient resource for professionals, students, and anyone interested in the field. The book stresses solutions in architectural heritage protection and the contexts in which they were developed.

Endnotes abound. — Journal of Architectural Conservation, (British) — An astonishing feat of research, compilation and synthesis.
